

The image shows a textured, yellowish-gold surface with an embossed floral pattern. The pattern features a central flower with several leaves and smaller blossoms, all rendered in a subtle, raised relief. The overall appearance is that of a decorative book cover or endpaper.

MACCRIPINE

Here, South Edgcombe students are pictured enjoying a favorite sport at a local pond. As the water is reflecting the faces of these young people, just so, their lives will reflect the training they receive in school.

Best of luck
to a very nice girl a friend.

in great

So very nice girl. I hope you will always be as cheerful everyday as you are today.

A friend,
Mabel

Best of luck
to a friend
Dorwood

Becky,

I have enjoyed going around with you for the last three years, and I hope I can go around with you the last two years out here. We have had some fun at South Edg.
that I will all ways remember. How about the times we worked in the student store together. Those Biology Classes must not have been very ~~extra~~ interesting because all we did was talk and laugh while Mr. Sizer was talking.

I wish I could date on the car with you again, you are so much fun, without you I feel as if I'm lost.
How about a Friday night we dated on the car together and we went to Wilson, we were 3 freshmen then, I'll never forget what you said about the other three on the car. I guess we were acting loco that night, but I still had fun.

How about the Sunday evening dates we have been together and the Sunday Gene was running up & down the highway, "want that funny" I can see him now. I wish a certain guy would hurry and come back to Sountain, so we could date on the car together again. Best of luck to a friend I'll never forget, you have made 3 years of my life seem wonderful.

Thanks for all the fun you have shared with me.
Again, I wish you the best of luck in the whole world threw out your life time. a true friend to you always,
Shirley Lancaster

South Edgemore High School

Macclesfield, Crisp, and Pinetops, North Carolina

Foreword

The entire program of South Edgecombe High School is planned to further the mental, physical, spiritual, and social development of its students. We hope that this 1957 Maccripine will reflect some of the highlights of that program. We also hope that these pages will serve throughout the years to stir your memories and keep alive a love for South Edgecombe.

To Our Coaches

Throughout our four years in high school there have been two people who have always had a friendly smile and a cheerful "hello" for each of us. They have been willing to go out of their way at any time to help us. These people have worked constantly for the betterment of our school. By teaching the values of alert minds, healthy bodies, and Christian principles, they have enriched our lives. We, the seniors, dedicate this 1957 MACCRIPINE to two people who will always hold special places in our lives — Mrs. Robert Frazier and Mr. J. D. Thorne.

Leaves of Time

Lovely autumn leaves that swirl outside the classroom window remind the dreamy senior of people, events, and moods of the preceding four years. Each color . . . red, green, gold, brown . . . becomes the symbol of a year.

Blazing red leaves are synonymous with the gait and enthusiasm of 73 freshmen who ventured confidently into the experiences of learning new faces, schedules, routines, and initiations. Yes, there were also red faces for the many mistakes that were made in finding "the way" in this new adventure of high school.

Blatting out the red leaf is a green one. More confident now, but still in the "green" stage of high school experience, the sophomores prepared to settle down to a good year's work; however, "Hazel", the bursting of the school boiler, and the snow would upset each settling-down. These "events" forced students into the gym for classwork and produced part of our Christmas holidays before Thanksgiving.

The green and red leaves have followed each other away, but glorious gold leaves fill the air and remind us of the productive junior year. There were yellow decorations for homecoming over which two members of this class ruled, and rich, heartwarming experiences of selling magazines and planning the Junior-Senior banquet, "Paris in the Spring". The yellow gold of the class rings comes to mind as a yellow leaf falls and plasters itself on the window pane.

With a gust of wind the gold retreats, but a warm brown leaf falls on the sill close by. It is rich in color, yet sad and solemn—symbolic of the moods of the pensive senior who watches from the window. There is sadness in the thought that the fun accompanying the giving of the senior play, "Don't Take My Penny", and the thrills of selling annual ads will not be matched again. Brown, the color of matured corn, reminds us of work done to earn money toward a New York trip.

Now the brown leaf has joined the red, the green, and the gold. The colors of these lovely autumn leaves will soon fade away, but each year they will reappear in all their glory. In this same manner these precious memories will appear again. The memories may fade a little as time goes by, but they will always reappear and be treasured.

The night of the senior play was one that seniors, and especially cast members, will long remember. The lines we almost forgot, the audience that laughed at unexpected spots, and the frantic scurrying around backstage added together to make November sixteenth a night to remember.

*Those 100 Minute
Classes*

"What is under the haad is as important as what is in the book," Mr. Thorne is telling Joe Webb, Mary E. Hagans, and Henry Yark during DRIVER TRAINING.

Phyllis Burgess, Jessie Ellis, and Janice Turner practice what they have learned in HOME ECONOMICS III.

Mr. Fulford directs Juniar Fuller and Bobby Gene Webb in the use of machinery — an impartant phase of AGRICULTURE.

Mary John Little and Bobby Morgan find Mr. Clary helpful in explaining problems in ALGEBRA II.

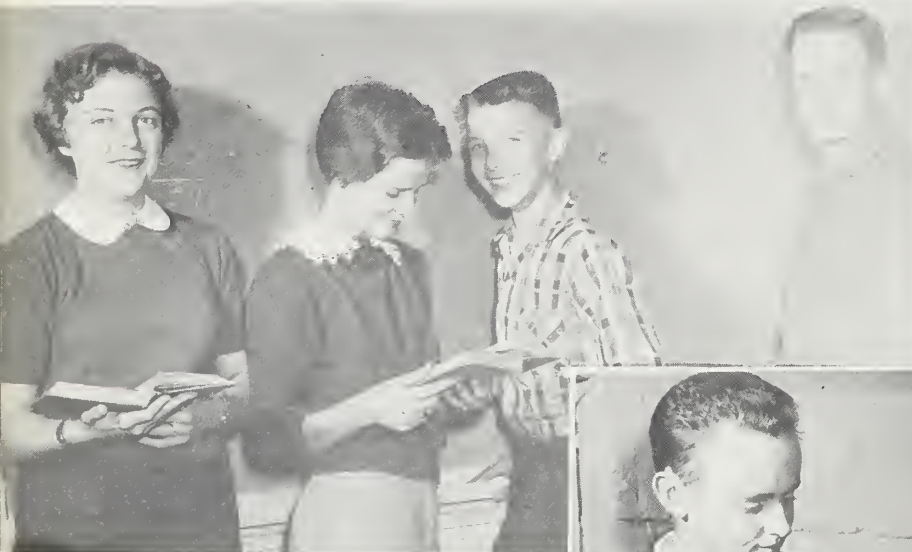

An unusual feature of our schedule is its 100 minute periods. Because of this, it takes 2 days to cover the classes. For example, on Monday a typical senior may have economics, Janice Turner, Billy Trevathan, Linda Sumerlin, and Alice Gray Summerlin are receiving practical office experience in TYPING II.

Exercises which Mary Owens and Barbara Phillips seem to be enjoying are a big part of HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

Grace Lewis, Sandra Sumerlin, Douglas Owens, and Johnny Weaver, will long remember the beard wark which is so much a part of freshman MATH.

Bab Corbett, Myrna Harrell, and Nancy Langley react very differently to a frog in BIOLOGY.

algebra, French, and activity period. Then on Tuesday, study hall, English, physics and activity. The activity period is filled with glee club, athletics, and club meetings.

As Hilda Best, Josephine Cummings, Geraldine Webb, and J. S. Hathaway work on a HISTORY scrapbook, they find that the people of the past seem important and alive.

The facial expressions of Ronold Webb, and Shirley Lancaster tell that Becky Best is giving a very interesting book report for ENGLISH II.

Wayne Forbes, Betsy Cobb, Koye Hathaway, and Noel Webb must know their theorems to be so happy in GEOMETRY.

Students in FRENCH I dramatize a well-known story in order to develop French vocabulary. Dione Webb, Red Riding Hood, asks Jerry Owens, the wolf, "Pourquoi avez-vous les yeux si grands, grand-mère?"

Assembly Highlights

Mr. Clary's announcements are characteristic of practically all assembly programs.

The F.T.A. devotional, with a painting of the Head of Christ as a worship center, inspired all of us.

The Quarternotes, a vocal group, sang in many assembly programs.

The Maccripine staff skit to boost yearbook circulation kept the whole student body roaring with laughter.

Activities

Student Cooperative Council

President Peggy Harrell recognizes secretary Gayle Carlton at a meeting of the student body. Dean Dunn, treasurer; Jessie Ellis, reporter; and Shirley Varnell, vice-president, are prepared to give their reports. Mrs. E. E. Phillips, Jr., the adviser, who leads the council in carrying out many projects beneficial to the school, listens attentively.

In the fall, the homerooms elect representatives to the Student Council. Presenting the ideas, plans, and wishes of their homerooms, and bringing reports to the homerooms, are the two duties of these representatives.

Nancy Jones, chairman of the Principal's Aid Committee, is shown checking the list to see who is to assist her in taking up the absence slips.

These four people represent four committees which have done a tremendous job for the school.

The Red-Cross Committee headed by Mary Jahn Little has planned many interesting programs. Shirley Phillips, chairman of the Cansalation Committee, has sent get-well-cards to every student or teacher who has been absent from school because of sickness. A very successful clean-up day was headed by Oneida Williams, chairman of the Clean-Up Committee. Our grounds have been greatly improved by shrubs planted by the Grounds Committee whose chairman is Jerry Owens.

The hameroom presidents and elected club representatives are Student Council members. During the year they explain projects that the student body must vote on to their respective clubs and hamerooms.

Mory John Little, Editor, and Ann Martin, Assistant Editor, look through other annuals for ideas. The Macripine is tops with them, though.

The yearbook adviser, Mrs. Ello Parker, checks final Macripine copy before it goes to press.

Circulation Monogers, Lindo Sumerlin and Bobby Scott, have the magic touch in selling annuals.

Mary Ellen Whitley and Janice Turner, Typists, try to get all the wording in the right places, a difficult job.

Staff

Business Managers, Polly Pitt and Diane Webb, are constantly checking copy for the ads.

Some staff members relax during a picture session, proving that even they have their lighter moments.

Nancy Jones and Oneida Williams, Layout Editors, play "paper dolls" as they seek an attractive picture arrangement.

Sports Editors, Alice Summerlin and Bobby Cole, decide which ball games to cover.

Beta Club

Beta officers, Peggy Carr, vice-president; Pally Pitt, secretary; Shirley Varnell, treasurer; Caralyn Dunn, reporter; and the adviser, Mrs. Robert Frazier, listen intently as president Diane Webb presides over a monthly night meeting of the organization.

Additional members are Oneida Williams, Billy Edwards, Phil Smith, Peggy Harrell, Linda Sumerlin, Mary John Little, Kaye Hathaway, Nancy Jones, Sylvia Varnell, and (in inset) Phyllis Burgess and Jackie Burgess.

Shirley Varnell is being instructed by president Diane Webb on how to prepare an absence report.

Kaye Hathaway and Billy Edwards start to clear debris from backstage as a beginning of a Beta project to improve the dressing room.

Marshals of '56

The marshals were chosen on the basis of their scholastic averages for their three high school years. The averages ranged from 94 to 92. These girls led approximately 2,000 people to their seats during commencement exercises. They were Peggy Harrell; Diane Webb, chief; Mary John Little; Nancy Jones; and Oneida Williams.

Beta Initiation

Beta Tapping

Mrs. Margaret McDuffie, the glee club director, who puts a lot of time and thought in her work, endeared herself to all the girls.

Glee

Ann Martin and Mary John Little, accompanists, were always on hand at Glee Club time to play for the girls.

Club

The Glee Club officers, Elizabeth Jefferson, president; Barbara Pittman, secretary; Kaye Hathaway, reporter; and Carol Lou Ellis, treasurer; sort out music before putting it away.

The Glee Club, composed of 50 members, met every Monday and Wednesday at activity period for practice on the various numbers they were learning.

The major performances of the year were at Christmas, at the Spring Concert, and at both the major commencement exercises. Several times during the year, the girls sang in school assemblies. The Glee Club has indeed given much enjoyment to our students and the three communities.

One of the programs of the year is centered around hair styling.

Miss Maxine McRay, adviser, proudly examines a copy of the finished issue of the Se Combe Echoes. Judy Webb and Almeta Webb enjoy it with her.

Janice Pitt and Carolyn Dunn buy copies of the newspaper from Mattie Ruth Edwards and Mary Yvanne Hoyle.

Rachelle Whaley, Virginia Webb, Babbie Taylor, and Josephine Cummings work on a program schedule for the club.

Many hours of typing were spent in getting the Se Combe Echoes off to press. Jane Carraway, Jackie Burgess, Darathy Taylor, and Jack Mayo, the typists, found this job very tiring but interesting.

With the clicking of typewriters, the shuffling of papers, and the bobbling of excited voices, the Se Combe Echoes staff started on the tremendous job of publishing a school paper — the chief project of the F.B.L.A. All club members aided and assisted in any way they could. They collected news, typed, and proofread all the copies.

Editor Linda Sumerlin and her assistant editor, Sally Whitley, counted and tabulated the ads sold to see if they balanced with the money on hand.

Alice Gray Summerlin, news editor; Mory Harrell, sports editor; and Annie Lais Flowers, art editor; found that it could be fun as well as hard work to plan a lay-out. Hilda Best, circulation chairman, is not pictured.

Mr. Frazier is adviser for the group.

Mrs. Griffin, sponsor for the Thomas Walfe Library Club, demonstrates the different steps in processing a book.

The members of the club are valuable assets to the school program. They check out books, keep the library neat, and make attractive bulletin board displays.

The Monogram Club, sponsored by Mr. J. D. Thorne and Mrs. Robert Frazier, is an honorary club for the lettermen of South Edgecombe. One of its functions is to assist in the sporting events of the school.

4-H Club

Members of the club have cooperated with the advisers, Miss Clea Janes and Mr. Charles Cane, in a county project by selling light bulbs to finance the purchase of a record player to be used at county council meetings. The members engage in local projects such as health, cooking, sewing, livestock, and home beautification. They also enjoy good fellowship at parties.

Miss Ethel Webb and Mrs. L. L. Margan have the tremendous job of preparing and serving lunch to all students at school. The lunches are nutritious and attractively served. Barbara Phillips, Mary Owens, and Mary Elizabeth Hagans help serve the lunch plates and milk. Rebecca Langley collects the lunch money.

All of these students have passed a course in bus driving and a two-weeks course in highway safety. To aid in safe departure of buses in the afternoon, Mr. Frazier directs the drivers.

GIRLS

The Edgecombe County Tournament was held in the South Edgecombe gym Feb. 25-27.

After finishing a very successful season, the Drogonettes participated in the Tournament where they advanced to the "runners-up." The team placed two girls on the all county team and three gained honorable mention.

The Court

Meredith Webb, queen, and Corey York, king, were crowned by last year's royalty, Lindo Sumerlin and Bobby Scott. The court consisted of the other contestants for the title. Seated: Betty Barnes, Christine Waters, Geraldine Ellis, Elizabeth Jefferson, Janice Turner, Faye Morris, Laura Louise Taylor . . . Standing: Jerry Owens, Bobby Williams, Durwood Allen, Melvin Price, Worley Wooten, Conrad Ellis, and Kenneth Edwards.

The alumni, students, and friends attending Homecoming Dec. 7, enjoyed the basketball games between the S. E. Dragons and the Snow Hill Yellowjackets. The boys lost in a touch-and-go game. The girls added a touch of success by winning with Carolyn Dunn as high scorer.

Following their coronation, Meredith Webb and Corey York danced at the sock hop over which they reigned.

Class of '56

Registration of alumni at the '56-'57 Homecoming revealed that the Class of '56 had the largest number of members attending this event. Alumni representation was large with all past South Edgecombe classes except two having members present.

Majorettes

High stepping majorettes appealed to the eyes of the spectators at the Homecoming. They were Edith Powell; Rochelle Whaley; Carolyn Dunn, chief; Janice Stanfield; and Sandra Bridgers.

Carey Frank York, a student in the South Edgecombe High School, is shown opening a Savings Account with Miss Eva Webb, cashier of The Peoples Bank.

Mr. & Mrs. Hilton Webb of Macclesfield,
N. C.

If you were ever a guest in the home of Beth Webb, our senior mascot, you would probably enjoy chocolate ice cream while watching "Lassie" or "My Friend Flicko" or listening to records by Elvis Presley. As the day progressed you would get involved in a game of cowboy or helping feed her pets, several cats and a dog. After a steak dinner, you would help Beth prepare her "dollies" for bed in pink nighties, as pink is her favorite color.

South Edgcombe welcomed Willie Moe Butler, Donno, Bonnie, and Normo Jeon Newcomb, Evelyn and Anito Moore (inset), and Mrs. Ethel Britt new home economics teacher, at the beginning of the second semester. Mrs. Britt helped the new girls with their home economics registration

Every day when the activity bell rang the majority of the students headed for the student store. Here they would get light refreshments and gossip with the pals they hadn't seen since lunch. Mr. Clory appointed different girls to work each day. Mory Hoyle and Almeto Webb served Nellie Wolston, Mottie R. Edwards, Noel Webb, and Trovis Goff popcorn and drinks.

While visiting a nearby college campus, these South Edgecombe students pause a while by the pool. . . . Many plans and hopes for the future are reflected in their thinking—college, business, armed forces, homemaking, and the ministry. . . . May their lives enrich whatever field they choose.
